Songkhla is a southern border province, adjacent to the State of Kedah (Sai Buri), Malaysia. It has been an important port and coastal province of Thailand since the past with Amphoe Hat Yai as the southern centre of commerce, transportation and rapid economic growth. The province is ideal for tourism because of its two distinct characteristics: the old buildings of Amphoe Mueang Songkhla, and the developed Amphoe Hat Yai, separated by only about 30 kilometres.

The old part of Songkhla is located at the present-day Amphoe Sathing Phra. Indians, Persians, and Arabs came to trade and called the place "Singhla". The name came from two islands with the shape of crouching lions at the mouth of the Songkhla Lake. The islands are presently called Ko Nu and Ko Maeo.

Songkhla occupies an area of 7,393 square kilometres, and is administratively divided into 16 districts: Mueang Songkhla, Ranot, Krasae Sin, Sathing Phra, Singhanakhon, Khuan Niang, Rattaphum, Bang Klam, Hat Yai, Na Mom, Chana, Thepha, Na Thawi, Saba Yoi, Sadao, and Khlong Hoi Khong.

ATTRACTIONS

Amphoe Mueang Songkhla

Songkhla's City Pillar (ศาลหลักเมืองสงขลา), on Nang Ngam Road, is a revered site to Songkhla's population. The Chinese architectural style building was constructed together with the city itself. Nearby dwellings, especially on Nakhon Nai and Nakhon Nok Roads also bear the same influence. The Chinese immigrants who came to settle there at the beginning of the 19th century had a major role in the establishment of Songkhla, hence, the distinctive Chinese lifestyle of the area.

Wat Matchimawat or Wat Klang (วัดมัทนิมawat หรือวัดกลาง), on Sai Buri Road, is a large temple and the most important in Songkhla. It is about 400 years old and was built in the late Ayutthaya period. It was said that Yai Si Chan, a millionaire of Songkhla donated a large sum of money to construct the temple. Later on Wat Liap was built in the north, and Wat Pho in the south. The people then changed the name of the temple which was situated in the middle from “Wat Yai Si Chan” to “Wat Klang” or “Wat Matchimawat”. This temple also has the Phattharasin Museum that houses various artefacts gathered from Songkhla, Sathing Phra, Ranot, and elsewhere. Open everyday except Monday, Tuesday and public holidays during 1.00-4.00 p.m.

Wat Chai Mongkhon (วัดชัยมงคล), on Phet Mongkhon - Chai Mongkhon Road, has a chedi that was built to house the Buddhist relics brought back from Ceylon by a monk named “Na Issaro” who was teaching Pali there in 1892. Open during 9.00 a.m. - 5.00 p.m.

The Songkhla National Museum (พิพิธภัณฑสถานแห่งชาติสงขลา), on Wichian Chom Road, was originally built in 1878 as Songkhla ruler's personal residence in the Chinese style. It became the domicile of Songkhla's upper administrative officers and finally the City Hall until 1953. It was converted into a museum in 1973 and officially opened in 1982 to exhibit lower Southern artefacts. Today it is the source of local archaeology, history, and folk arts and culture. It has a notable collection of artefacts from different periods and various items of the "Na Songkhla Family" that used to rule the city. It is open to the public from 9.00 a.m. to 4.00 p.m., except Monday, Tuesday, and public holidays. Tel: 0 7431 1728.

The Songkhla National Museum

Phathammarong Museum (พิพิธภัณฑ์พระตำมารง) is on Chana Road near the Songkhla National Museum. It was constructed in the Thai style to resemble the birthplace of General Prem Tinsulanonda, President of the Privy Council and Statesman who is a Songkhla native. The construction was based on his testimony when his father was the prison warden. Open everyday except Monday and public holidays during 8.30 a.m. - 4.00 p.m.

Ban Sattha (บ้านศรัทธา) is situated on a hill slope overlooking the Tinsulanonda Bridge to Ko Yo. It is surrounded by coconut plantations. The city people had it built for General Prem Tinsulanonda, President of the Privy Council and Statesman, when he was the Prime Minister. Construction was completed on 26 August 1991. In 1996, General Prem gave the house back to the people of Songkhla. There is a public library nearby.

Laem Samila (แหลมสมิหลา) is in the City Municipality, about 2.5 kilometres from the fresh market (Talat Sapsin or Talat Sot Thetsaban). This peninsula is well-known for its white sandy beach, shady pine groves, and the statue of a mermaid that is Songkhla's symbol. It is serviced by Hat Yai - Songkhla buses. From within the city, one can take a "Song Thaeo" minibus to the beach.

Ko Nu and Ko Maeo (เกาะหนู-เกาะแมว), a well-known symbol of Songkhla, is situated off the shore of Laem Samila. Legend has it that a dog, a cat - Maeo, and a mouse - Nu, on a Chinese sampan stole the merchant's magic crystal and tried to swim ashore but drowned and lost their lives. The mouse and cat became the islands in the Songkhla Lake while the dog died on shore and became the hill called Hin Khao Tangkuan near the bay. The crystal was totally destroyed and became the white sandy beach called Hat Sai Kaeo.

Khao Tangkuan (เขาดังกวาน) at Laem Samila has the Sala Wihan Daeng, the royal pavilion built during the reign of King Rama V. On the hilltop is a Dvaravati chedi housing the Buddha's relics that was built during the period of Nakhon Si Thammarat State. In October, there is a festival to clad the chedi with a piece of cloth, to pull the floats of the Buddha image in a procession, and to offer alms to monks. A panoramic view of the city and the Songkhla Lake can be seen from the hilltop. A lift up to the top of Khao Tangkuan is available. For more information, Tel: 0 7431 6330.

Laem Son On (แหลมสนอ่อน) is situated to the northwest of Laem Samila. It is well shaded with sea oaks. At the end of the peninsula stands the statue of Prince Chumphon Khet Udomsak. This peninsula is the best spot to view Ko Nu and the Songkhla Lake.

Khao Noi (เขาน้อย), near Laem Samila, has a road to the hilltop for paying homage to the statue of Prince

Khao Tangkuan

Laem Son On

Lop Buri Ramet (The Southern Viceroy), and to view the city. In the east is a public park with food services and tennis courts. In the northeast is Suan Seri, another park with ornamental topiary plants in animal shapes. Tamnak Khao Noi, in the south, was built in 1911 as the residence of Prince Lop Buri Ramet and was used by Their Majesties the King and Queen on their royal visit to the South in March 1959. Today the mansion is the residence of the Songkhla Provincial Governor.

Khao Kao Seng (เขาเก้าเส้ง) is located about three kilometres to the south of Hat Samila. It can be reached via the road to the National Coastal Aquaculture Institute. It is one of the beautiful beaches of Songkhla, dotted with large boulders one of which is on a rock, the locals call it 'Hua Nai Raeng'. It was said that underneath this boulder there used to be treasure stored by the people as offerings to the Buddha's relics to be contained inside the Nakhon Si Thammarat Chedi. Their trip was delayed by wavy sea and the treasure was believed to have been buried here.

Songkhla Zoo

Songkhla Zoo (สวนสัตว์สงขลา) is an open zoo, on the Songkhla - Chana Road, Tambon Khao Rup Chang. It was established for the preservation of Thai wildlife and to return them to the wild. The zoo covers a hilly area with an asphalt ring road. The various animals have been grouped separately, such as camels, birds, bantengs, tigers, crocodiles, and others. One of the highlights in the zoo not to be missed is the viewing point for the city where food stalls are available. Open everyday during 8.30 a.m. - 5.00 p.m. For more information, please call Tel. 0 7433 6038-40.

Songkhla Lake (ทะเลสาบสงขลา), the only natural lake in Thailand is about 80 kilometres long and 20 to 25 kilometres wide. It is a freshwater lake with brackish water near the mouth. There are several islands across from its mouth, the major ones include Ko Yai, Ko Si, Ko Ha, Ko Kao, Ko Mak, Ko Rai, and Ko Yo. Boats are available for touring the lake. The port behind the post office or the fresh market has all-day long-tailed boat services.

Tinsulanonda Bridge (สะพานติณสูลานนท์) spans the Songkhla Lake and is part of Highway 407. It is the longest concrete bridge in Thailand, with two parts: the first part connects the coast of Amphoe Mueang Songkhla at Ban Nam Krachai to the southern coast of Ko Yo; this part is about 1,140 metres long; the second part connects the northern shore of Ko Yo to the coast of Ban Khao Khiao, a length of 1,800 metres. It was opened to traffic on 25 September 1986.

Ko Yo (เกาะยอ) is a small island in the Songkhla Lake but is also an important tourist attraction of Songkhla. The island, covering an area of 9,275 rai (3,710 acres), can be reached via Tinsulanonda Bridge. The coastal plain on the island is suitable for agriculture, resulting in famous fruit-growing such as a special kind of jackfruit called Champedak. Another famous product is the hand-woven fabric.

The Institute for Southern Thai Studies (สถาบันทักษิณคดีศึกษา) is situated on Ko Yo, near the foot of the second part of the Tinsulanonda Bridge. It was established in 1978 for the studies of southern arts and culture.

The Institute for Southern Thai Studies

Its museum has comprehensive exhibits on local arts and culture, and southern lifestyle as well as artefacts echoing local wisdom accumulated through several generations. The systematic exhibits cover more than 30 rooms displaying history, religion, tradition, occupation, folk play, handicrafts, and various artefacts. Viewing points for the Songkhla Lake and aquaculture farms should not be missed. Admission fee is 60 baht for adults and 30 baht for children. Call Tel. 0 7433 1184 - 9.

Amphoe Hat Yai (อำเภอหาดใหญ่)

The word “hat yai” is said to have come from the name of the white sandy beach around Khlong U Taphao, or could have been the name of a large mahat tree (Mahat Yai).

The city of Hat Yai (ตัวเมืองหาดใหญ่), 28 kilometres from the city of Songkhla, is the gateway to the neighbouring countries of Malaysia and Singapore. It is only 60 kilometres from the border checkpoint at Sadao. Hat Yai has grown significantly into the commercial, transportation, communication, educational, and tourism centre of the south. Tourists can obtain various goods from fresh produce to consumer products; such as; electrical appliances. Niphat Uthit 1, 2, and 3 Roads are the major commercial centre. There are several shopping areas; such as, Santisuk Market and Kimyong Market.

Hat Yai Municipal Park (สวนสาธารณะเทศบาลเมืองหาดใหญ่), on Kanchanawarit Road, is six kilometres from the city centre on the Hat Yai - Songkhla Road. It is the major recreation park for the people of Hat Yai and surrounding areas as well. The park is full of beautiful flowering plants, with a pavilion in the middle of the pond, aviary, and food shops. At the foot of the hill near the aviary stands the statue of King Rama V. There is a God

Brahma's shrine at the hilltop, and at the southern foothill near the boy scout camp stands the jade statue of Guan Yin, the Chinese Goddess of Mercy.

Wat Hat Yai Nai (วัดหาดใหญ่ไฉน) on Phetchakasem Road, near Khlong U Taphao Bridge, is the site of a large reclining Buddha image measuring 35 metres long, 15 metres tall, and 10 metres wide, named Phra Phuttha Hattha Mongkhon, revered by both Thai and foreign tourists.

Namtok Ton Nga Chang (น้ำตกตองนางช้าง) is located in the Ton Nga Chang Wildlife Sanctuary. It is one of the beautiful waterfalls of the South, about 26 kilometres from the city. Follow the Hat Yai - Rattaphum Road for 13 kilometres, then turn left at Ban Hu Rae for another 13 kilometres. This waterfall has seven levels, the third level is the most beautiful and is named after the waterfall. At the third level, the stream separates into two, resembling the elephant's tusks. Treks have been provided for more adventurous tourists. One can hire a motorised tricycle (tuk-tuk) to the waterfall for two to three hours at 300-400 baht, or one can take the minibus from the fresh market (Talat Sot Thet Sa Ban Hat Yai).

Amphoe Rattaphum (อำเภอรัตภูมิ)

Namtok Boriphat Forest Park (วนอุทยานน้ำตกบริพัตร) is about 52 kilometres from Amphoe Mueang Songkhla, on Highway 406, between Km. 35-36. Turn onto a dirt road for about 800 metres. It is a small all-season waterfall.

Amphoe Sadao (อำเภอสะเดา)

This border district is in the southern part of the province, adjacent to the State of Kedah in Malaysia, about 60 kilometres from Hat Yai. For more information,

Namtok Ton Nga Chan

Tel : 0 7430 1107, 0 7430 1401, 0 7430 1404. The major attraction in this district is Wat Tham Khao Rup Chang (วัดถ้ำเขารูปช้าง) in Tambon Padang Besar, about 13 kilometres from Padang Besar Market. The temple uses the a cave as its religious ground. The cave has been partitioned into several rooms with delicate stalactites and stalagmites. The surroundings are peaceful and shaded by trees.

Amphoe Chana (อำเภอฉะนะ)

Wat Khuat or Khok Sak Meditation Centre (วัดขุด หรือ สถานปฏิบัติธรรมโคกสัก) Is located at Mu 5 Ban Khlong Han, Tambon Ban Khae, 50 km. from Amphoe Hat Yai. The temple was constructed in 1993 from donated used bottles of various colours, comprising an Ubosot - ordination hall, Rong Tham - preaching hall, Kuti - monk's cells, chedi, and walls, to become an outstanding piece of architecture that has attracted both Thai and foreign visitors.

To get there : Follow Highway 408 (Chana - Na Thawi Road) and turn at Km. 43 opposite the Ban Khae School for 6 km. to reach the temple.

Amphoe Na Thawi (อำเภอนาทวี)

Khao Namkhang National Park (อุทยานแห่งชาติเขาน้ำค้าง) has lush forest cover. There are three major waterfalls within this park: Wang Luang Phrom, Ton Dat Fa and Ton Lat. Tourists can take two routes to the park: from Amphoe Sadao for 27 kilometres or from Amphoe Na Thawi on the Na Thawi - Ban Prakop Road for 31 kilometres. Please call Na Thawi District Office for more information at Tel. 0 7437 1010.

Khao Namkhang Historic Tunnel (อุโมงค์ประวัติศาสตร์เขาน้ำค้าง) is situated in Khao Namkhang, Mu 1, Tambon Khlong Kwang, about four kilometres from the Park Office. This tunnel was once known as the Piyamit Village 5, run by Communist insurgents. After almost 40 years of fighting with the Thai government, the Communist Party terminated the fight and became part of the Thai Development Participants in 1987. It is the largest and longest man-made tunnel in Thailand, completed in two years with three separate corridors and three levels deep. It could accommodate about 200 persons with several rooms such as a conference room, sick bay, radio transmission room, kitchen, firing range, and others.

Amphoe Thepha (อำเภอเทพา)

Hat Sakom (หาดสะกอม) is about 53 kilometres from Amphoe Mueang Songkhla, on the Songkhla - Chana - Thepha Road. The beautiful beach is sandy white, suitable for recreation. There are food stalls and lodging. One can hire a fishing vessel to Ko Kham where fish is plentiful and suitable for sports fishing. The island is about two kilometres offshore.

Amphoe Singhanakhon (อำเภอสิงหนคร)

Chedi Phi Nong Yot Khao Daeng (เจดีย์พี่น้องยอดเขาแดง) consists of two brother stupas:

Chedi Ong Dam (The Black Chedi), is situated at the top of Khao Daeng, Tambon Khao Daeng. It was built by Chao Mueang Phra Khlang (Dit Bunnak) or Somdet Phraya Borom Maha Prayurawong to commemorate the victory over the Sai Buri Revolt in 1830.

Chedi Ong Khao (The White Chedi) was built by Phraya Si Phiphat (That Bunnak) or Somdet Phraya Maha Phichaiyat to commemorate the victory over the Sai Buri, Pattani, Penang, and Malayan Revolts. After the victory, Phraya Si Phiphat remained in Songkhla for two years and built this Chedi to accompany the first one, then returned to Bangkok.

Amphoe Sathing Phra (อำเภอสทิงพระ)

Khu Khut Waterfowl Park (Thale Sap Songkhla Non-hunting Area) (อุทยานนกน้ำกูด-เขตห้ามล่าสัตว์ป่าทะเลสาปสงขลา), is situated at Mu 4, Tambon Khu Khut, about 55 kilometres from Songkhla, on Highway 4083 and three kilometres from the highway into the park. It was established as a non-hunting area on 19 April 1976, covering an area of 227,916 rai (91,166 acres) in both Songkhla and Phatthalung provinces. In fact this water-fowl park is part of the Thale Sap Songkhla or Songkhla Lake. The survey undertaken by the Royal Forestry Department discovered 44 families, 137 genera, and 219 species of birds. The best period to view the birds are from December to March. Boats are provided by the park office at 200 baht an hour. For more information, please call the Park Office at Tel: 0 7439 7042.

Wat Cha Thing Phra (วัดจะตี่งพร๑) is located at Mu 4, Tambon Cha Thing Phra, about 200 metres from Sathing Phra District Office. It was established in 999 A.D. This temple has several ancient ruins from the Sri Vijaya Period such as Chedi Phra Maha That, Wihan Phra Phutthasaiyat (reclining Buddha), and the bell tower.

Wat Pha Kho or Wat Ratchapraditsathan (วัดพะโคะหรือวัดราชประดิษฐาน) is located at Mu 6, Tambon Chumphon, on Khao Phatthasing, about 48 kilometres from Songkhla, on the Songkhla - Sathing Phra Road. This temple was established in ca. 43 B.C. and used to be the seat of Somdet Pha Kho or Luangpho Thuat Yiap Nam

Wat Pha Kho

Wat Cha Thing Phra

Thale Chuet, the most revered monk in the South. It was said that one day, a pirate ship sailed along the coast and saw Somdet Pha Kho walking. The pirates wanted to test the monk so they docked and kidnapped him. But the ship did not sail very far before it stopped with no apparent reason and had to anchor there for several days until they ran out of freshwater - Nam Chuet. Somdet Pha Kho took pity on them so he put his left foot in the sea, making it sparkle and turn into freshwater. The pirates became faithful, asked for his pardon, and took him ashore. From then on, the people started to pay homage to the monk.

Amphoe Krasae Sin (อำเภอกระแสนินทร์)

Wat Ek Choeng Sae (วัดเอกเชิงแส) is located in Tambon Choeng Sae. Its old name was Wat Ek. It has the revered coral Buddha image that had been covered with plaster. The image is 70 centimetres wide at the lap and 120 centimetres tall. Tel : 0 7439 9075

Sacred Pond at Wat Laem Bo Tho (บ่อน้ำศักดิ์สิทธิ์ วัดแหลมบ่อท่อ) is situated at Mu 4, Tambon Ko Yai, about seven kilometres from the district office. It was said that a monk named Phra Sin Narai and a layman named Khun Wichai Phromsat built this pond on their way from India to Ayutthaya. This sacred pond has clean freshwater all year round.

EVENTS & FESTIVALS

Songkran Festival (ประเพณีสงกรานต์) is held on 13 April. In Hat Yai, the festival is held around Niphat Uthit 1, 2, and 3 Roads, from morning till evening. Malaysians and Singaporeans often join in the festivities with their Thai hosts.

Southern Agricultural Fair (งานเกษตรภาคใต้) is held annually during July - August by the Faculty of Natural Resources, Prince of Songkhla University. With the aim for agricultural promotion, the Fair features activities relating to agro-industry; such as, sales of agricultural produce and products from the Southern provinces, produce contests, and various demonstrations.

Cultural Relations Fair (งานวัฒนธรรมสัมพันธ์) is held during July - August by Rajabhat University Songkhla with the main objective of cultural exchange, featuring cultural performances from different regions of Thailand and neighbouring countries like Malaysia and Indonesia, as well as a booth display.

Lak Phra and Tak Bat Thewo (งานประเพณีลากพระ และตักบาตรเทโว) is held on the first day of the waning moon in the eleventh lunar month, around October of every year in Amphoe Mueang Songkhla. The festivity would start one day before the actual day to wrap a large cloth around the top of the Chedi on Khao Tangkuan. In the morning of the festival day, alms are offered to monks (Tak Bat Thewo) at the foot of the hill. Several hundred monks would walk down from Khao Tangkuan to receive the offerings. Late in the morning, floats of Buddha images from various temples in Songkhla would proceed along the road, so the Buddhists can make merit and pull the floats (lak phra). Such acts are considered highly meritorious. The Buddha image floats would congregate at the lotus pond to participate in the float decoration contest. On the festival ground, there are also art and cultural performances.

Tham Bun Duean Sip (งานเทศกาลทำบุญเดือนสิบ) is another southern tradition that is held during the waning moon period of the tenth lunar month. This festival grew from the belief that during the period, the souls of the deceased relatives and friends, especially those not yet reborn would be released to meet the living relatives. So the living would prepare food to offer to the monks in their names. In Sathing Phra, this festivity is different from other districts whereby tall figures called “Thong Sung” are paraded as the “proxy” for the deceased who are respected by the villagers.

Local Products & Souvenirs

Shrimp and fish crackers (ข้าวเกรียบกุ้ง-ปลา) are one of the local products of Songkhla. They are delicious and inexpensive. There is also nam budu, cashew nuts, and dried crispy shrimp that can be purchased from many stalls on Nakhon Nai Road in the city.

Nang Talung (shadow puppet) (รูปหนังตะลุง) is the South's folk art that is shown to the general public in Nakhon Si Thammarat, Phatthalung, Trang, and Songkhla. A temporary platform is usually built for the performance. The puppets, cut from animal hide, are placed against the rear of a white screen in front of a bright light so the audience can see their shadows. The story is told by narrators. The puppets can be purchased from souvenir stores.

Ko Yo Hand-woven Fabric

Ko Yo Hand-woven Fabric (ผ้าทอเกาะยอ) is another folk product of Songkhla, produced mainly from Ko Yo, Amphoe Mueang Songkhla. The sturdy hand-woven fabric has intricate designs such as Lai Ratchawat, and Lai Luk Kaeo and can be purchased from stores on Nakhon Nai and Nang Ngam Roads.

Recommended Dishes

Bakutte (บะกุดเต้) a pork rib soup with Chinese herbs is a favourite local dish for breakfast eaten with steamed dishes like dumpling and Dim Sam, available around the city.

Kuaichap (ก้วยจ๊ับ) near the Lido Hotel on Sanehanuson Road, offering a delicious thick noodle soup.

Khanom Sampanni, Khanom Thong Muan, Khanom Thong Phlap (ขนมลำปำนี้ ขนมทองม้วน ขนมทองพลับ), and several other desserts are freshly available at the Khanom Thai Song Saen Shop on Nang Ngam Road.

Sports & Other Interesting Activities

Bullfight (กีฬามวยโค) has been the famous local favourite sport since ancient times. After the harvest season, owners would bring their bulls to fight as a gesture of solidarity and festivity. Two bull's would fight against each other in each round lasting between 15 to 30 minutes, depending on the bulls conditions. Today, each district has its own bullfighting ring with monthly fights on either Saturday or Sunday. Fighting schedules are agreed upon by various district rings.

Shooting for sport (กีฬายิงปืน) in Songkhla can be carried out at two shooting ranges that are open to the public, as follows.

Ruchirawong Range (สนามยิงปืนรุจิรวงศ์) is located in Amphoe Hat Yai, across from the Hat Yai District Police Office, and is open daily. Please call for more information at Tel. 0 7424 3311.

Songkhla Royal Navy Range (สนามยิงปืนราชนาวี สงขลา) is located within the Songkhla Navy Base, on the beachfront Chalathat Road. For more information, please call Tel. 0 7432 1251.
